Almost 1 in 3 people have unmet need at end of life in the UK, as shown by Marie Curie commissioned research.

Marie Curie

The research defined unmet need as where a person experiences both unaddressed symptoms and concerns, and lack of access to GP services.
Further Marie Curie research estimates that around 200,000 people are unlikely to get their palliative care needs met each year in the UK.

Read the report

research.info@mariecurie.org.uk

Charity reg no. 207994 (England & Wales), SC038731 (Scotland)